Tracking UTM values into Salesforce Campaigns

What to expect in this session:

- Understanding UTMs
- The value of tracking UTMs in Salesforce Campaigns
- How to get UTMs into Salesforce
- How to capture UTMs in Pardot
- How to build a Channel Performance report

Why is this important?

What can you see now in Pardot?

- Pardot “Source” field
- Google Analytics UTM data

Why isn't this good enough?

- Both capture first-touch
- Rely on Pardot/Google Analytics to populate
- Doesn't appear on Campaign Member records

What will you see by adding custom UTMs?

- Consistent capturing of UTM data for last touch and/or first touch
- Detail of where Prospects came from
- Customizable to your business needs
- Track UTMs through to specific campaigns

What are UTM's?

UTMs (Urchin Tracking Module) are parameters in a URL that identify the campaign that is referring traffic to a specific website, and attributes the browser's website session and the sessions after that until the campaign attribution window expires.

UTM Parameters

- Source
  - The website the traffic has come from
- Medium
  - The type of traffic it is (aka - the channel)
- Campaign
  - The marketing campaign
- Content
  - How you might classify the content
- Keyword/Term
  - The keyword you're using, usually limited to Search advertising campaigns

UTM Best Practice tips

- These are unique to each company
- ALWAYS use lowercase
- AVOID spaces between parameter values
- Custom parameters can be added
  - I.e. - Salesforce Campaign ID

UTM Information

UTM_Campaign_LastTouch	UTM_Campaign_Copy
UTM_Medium_LastTouch	UTM_Medium_Copy
UTM_Source_LastTouch	UTM_Source_Copy
UTM_Content_LastTouch	UTM_Content_Copy
UTM_Term_LastTouch	UTM_Term_Copy

Normally these are hidden

- You will need two sets of fields: visible and hidden
- Some considerations:
  - Do you also want to see First Touch? You'll need another set of UTM fields

UTM Fields on Campaign Members

- Only one set of fields required
- No need to distinguish between “first touch” or “last touch”

Passing UTMs into Pardot

Heads up: Talk to your website admin before you start implementing this solution

- Usually need to add Javascript to your website too
- UTM fields added as “hidden” fields on form

Form handler

- Need to add Javascript to your landing page/website to help pass the values into Pardot

Automating the data flow

“Stamping” UTM values

- Advise using a Flow as Process Builders are going to be retired at some point
- Only 5 Active Flows allowed with Pro version of Salesforce

Let's see it all in action!

Test and test again!

- Are the UTM values being captured correctly in Pardot?
- Are they passing through to lead and contact records?
- Are they being applied to the Campaign Member record?
- What if a single user does multiple engagements?
- Are the UTMs also reflected correctly in Google Analytics?
